Dental Professionals - Select the right LUNA Whitening Concentration by assessing the patient's oral health and sensitivity. Use a lower concentration (16% CP to 25% CP) for sensitive teeth and higher concentrations (35% HP) for faster results. Tailored treatments ensure safe, effective, and satisfiable whitening! The combination of the pre/post vacuum allows closed door drying and sterilization for the most difficult loads.

The Clave B is an intuitive and easy to use Class B Sterilizer. All operations are controlled with only 4 buttons, with 3 buttons that control the program selection and 1 to start the sterilization cycle.

SINUS AUGMENTATIONS

NovaBone Dental Putty can be used for lateral sinus augmentations and is particularly suitable for the crestal approach given the unique cartridge-based delivery. The Schneiderian membrane is typically elevated without incident.

PERI-IMPLANT DEFECTS

The Putty is suitable for small to moderate-sized dehiscence and fenestration defects around dental implants, whether at the time of placement or for post placement repair. The unique cartridge-based delivery allows for precise delivery of the graft in hard-to-access defect sites or when expressing the graft between the implant body and the remaining wall of the defect.

PARTIAL AND FULL EXTRACTION SITES

NovaBone Dental Putty is an exceptional choice for filling extraction sockets. Given the complete resorption of the material and substitution with host bone, it is ideal for ridge preservation in delayed implant placement protocols.

SUPERIOR DELIVERY

NovaBone Dental Putty is available in a unidose cartridge format that is familiar to practitioners but unique to the bone graft industry. The 2.8mm curved cannula allows for precise delivery of the graft material in difficult to access defects.

It is also a highly effective delivery system for specialized indications such as the crestal approach to sinus augmentation.

FULLY SYNTHETIC

As a synthetic graft material, you can be assured of consistent product quality and the elimination of any risk for disease transmission-factors which may improve patient acceptance.

RADIOPAQUE

The Putty material is radio-dense and hence can be differentiated from the surrounding bone on a radiograph.

CONFIGURATIONS AND ORDERING INFORMATION

NovaBone Dental Putty is available in a variety of configurations including the unique unidose cartridge and syringe options.
